Forecast For Southwest England
Issued by Met Office Exeter
at 1600 on Tuesday 15 Jun 2021

++ Valid for broadcast between 1800 and 0600

Headline:
Mostly dry overnight. Sunny and east very warm on Wednesday.

This Evening and Tonight:
Sunny and dry through the evening. Plenty of clear spells remain overnight, allowing some rural fog patches to form. Turning cloudier in the west before dawn, with a little drizzle in places. Minimum temperature 6 deg C (43 deg F).

Wednesday:
Generally dry through the day with sunny spells, however cloud and perhaps some drizzle in the west. Cloud increasing for all later, with the risk of heavy, thundery showers overnight. Maximum temperature 26 deg C (79 deg F).

Outlook for Thursday to Saturday:
Heavy showers clearing through Thursday morning with sunny spells developing later. Further heavy, thundery rain is likely on Friday. Dry with sunny spells on Saturday.

(C) Crown Copyright 2021. Published by the Met Office.